YOUR COMMENTS ON THE CASE

The Titchfield theatre is a fantastic addition to the local community, both in the offering of diverse shows available at a very reasonable cost; and the theatre classes and shows for local children. As a parent to a young girl who has attended the theatre for over 5 years now and performed in many shows in the old and new stages she has grown exponentially in her confidence and independence. The ability to perform with lots of children of different ages and schools has helped her immensely but will also prepare the foundations for her whole life.

I feel the council has yet to outline exactly what the the theatre has supposed to have breached. The have also done nothing to outline how the new Fareham Live will benefit young local people like titchfield does. It feels very shortsighted that instead of embracing the opportunities and small business of titchfield theatre to help them grow and be a core focal support and demonstrate how progressive the council can be. Instead it feels now that Fareham council are holding a grudge and being very unprofessional in their manner., to the point that I am seriously considering not to vote Conservative in the up coming elections.

I implore on the council to extend a helping hand instead of trying to rip down the theatre and shatter the lives of many young people.
